HORSE TALES

WINTER 2004

IN THE SPOTLIGHT Gloria & Marc Coleman and Fame

Boarder Gloria Coleman started her riding career two years ago at age 29 by taking English riding lessons at the equestrian center. In May 2003, she and her husband Marc purchased Fame, a sweet, inquisitive, three-year-old thoroughbred from a farm that rescues and places thoroughbreds off the track. Fame, raised on a Kentucky horse farm, was headed for a racing career that never materialized.

A young thoroughbred is a handful for experienced equestrians, but Gloria and Marc were prepared to invest in Fame's training. They purchased Fame to grow with him, and brought him to the center to learn. Gloria's experience with Fame makes "every day a new adventure!"

Marc and Gloria say Fame has made great strides in the past eight months. Marc helps with Fame's care and watches Gloria ride Fame in lessons. BEEC instructors Cathy Schwartz and Kasec Trefzger ride Fame, and Gloria learns as they explain everything they do as they ride.

Gloria Coleman with her thoroughbred, Fame

Gloria enjoys her long trail rides on Fame and plans to ride him in Hunter Pace events one day. Marc is taking western lessons on our lesson horses and hopes to some day ride Fame and join Gloria on his own horse. 🐾
